Football, Band and High School

I got into a writing mood for some reason and came up with this story as I was trying to sleep.

Disclaimer I do not own RWBY and most of the characters in this story. I however may include some OC's for fillers. And finally if you don't like the story don't read. Thank you.

Chapter 1:

A typical Friday night football game. The bright stadium lights are lighting up the field and fans cheering and yelling as loud as they could. Every one on the edge of they're seats with how close the came was and ready for the next play knowing it was the last play of the game. The score board reads Home-20 and Visitors-26 with Mistral academy leading against Beacon with 0:25 left on the clock. Beacon had the ball and were lining up after using their last time out.

The red head quarterback looked at the clock realizing that this is the last play they had time for and could mean a win or a lose. They line up on the 40 knowing they still had a way to go for a touch down. This was all or nothing. The Ball snaps into the hands of the quarterback. The red head scans the field looking for a clear throw knowing every second she waits could mean someone making it threw the line. With every second that passed seemed longer then the last.

Finally she spots number 23 down field and puts all she could into the throw. The ball leaves her hand a split second before she gets tackled to the ground. The ball is soaring threw the air with a perfect spiral. Lands in the hands of number 23 just as he reached the in zone and got tackled.

The crowd loses it and horn starts to blaze. The band jumps up and starts blasting their fight song. Almost drowning out the announcer. "Pyrrha Nikos with an excellent throw to William Jackson for a TOUCH DOWN! Beacon wins 26-25!" Mistral's team is walking of the field while Beacon starts to celebrate from a good long game.

Pyrrha strips off her helmet looking up at the crowd and enjoying the victory. She looked over as their best lineman Yang took off her helmet and was making her way to the cheer leaders. As soon as Yang got over to them she picked up her girlfriend Weiss. Pyrrha could vaguely hear Weiss saying things like brute. She felt slightly jealous because she never been on date with anyone.

It is not that she hadn't been been asked out by both boys and girls. She just hasn't been asked by the right girl. As she thought that she looked up into the stand and noticed the band packing up their instruments. She started to look threw the saxophone section to find the girl she was looking for. Then she spotted the black haired girl rapidly taking her instrument apart. Her name was Ruby and happened to be Yangs younger sister.

Yang and Pyrrha have been best friends since they started football together their freshman year. So this meant Pyrrha went to Yang's house often so she had become friends with the overly happy and excited girl. She had started to grow fond of the young girl over the past 4 years. Pyrrha was lost in thought and hadn't notice Yang coming up behind her.

'Smack' Yang had hit Pyrrha hard on the back with congratulations which snapped her out of her thoughts. "Ouch, Yang was that really necessary?" Pyrrha asked. Yang then responded, "Well I am just happy that we won. So are you going to come eat with us at our usually pizza place or are you going to go home like usual?"

"Well I was hoping to get a good shower and pass out," Pyrrah responded as they were walking towards the locker room. Yang sigh, "Well that's boring, come on it'll be fun." Pyrrha had already started to strip off her gear when she said, "No Yang I am pretty tired and would like a good shower." She looked over at Yang and was still amazed at how quick Yang strip down.

Yang then smiled and said, "Well you know my sister is going and I think she would really happy if you could come along." Pyrrha blushed but said, "Well... If you think it'll make her happy I wouldn't mind tagging along." "Awww Pyrrha, you should just ask her out already I know she would say yes," Yang said as she finish getting dress.

Pyrrha looked over with a heavy blush on her face but said, "I don't know I am afraid our schedules would be to different and not sure." "Well I think you would make a cute couple. Anyway I'm going to grab Weiss and Ruby. Hopefully I can get there before the pizza place gets too full," Yang said as she walked out with her bag and equipment.

Pyrrha finished getting dressed and walked out of the locker room with her stuff to her car. As she grew closer she saw Ruby standing by her car with her instrument case. As she got closer to her car she asked, "Ruby I thought you were riding with Yang." Ruby quickly responded with, "Well Yangs mustang doesn't have much of a back seat and with all her and Weiss stuff there wasn't much room. And Yang said you had offered to take me." Ruby was smiling while looking at Pyrrha that was making her heart beat fast. "Yang didn't tell me, but see how Yang already left I don't mind you riding with." Ruby pouted feeling bad which only served to sped up Pyrrha's hard, _Man she is so cute._

"It is no problem Ruby I don't mind at all," Pyrrha quickly said hoping to cheer the unbelievable cute girl up. She was surprised when Ruby gave her a big hug and now there was no way her cheeks weren't the same color as her hair. "Thanks Pyrrha, Yang seems to forgot details often," Ruby said while finally letting Pyrrha go. Pyrrha smiled, "Again no problem." She then helped her load up her things while she did she thought to herself, _She is so cute__ but I'm going to have to thank Yang and give her a good punch._

Thanks for reading. This story came to me right before bed and I wanted to write it out. I am also writing these because of the lack of this ship too. Just because it's a row boat doesn't mean it's not a ship haha.
